

INSTITUTE OF GENERAL SEMANTICS, INC.
PUBLISHING AGREEMENT

1 November 2005

1. The purpose of this agreement is to clearly define rights and permissions for original works of authorship (articles, columns, poems, artwork, etc.) published by the Institute of General Semantics, Inc. (IGS), a not-for-profit corporation. IGS publishes ETC: A Review of General Semantics, General Semantics Bulletin, Time-Bindings, and various other books and media. This agreement addresses works of authorship that you submit to IGS for publication from time to time, and includes works you have submitted that have been published to date.
2. Unless specifically agreed in writing, IGS, a not-for-profit corporation, does not pay contributors for their works of authorship.
3. To ensure that the interests of both parties (you and IGS) are served by this agreement, the following rights and permissions are expressly agreed upon by the parties:
 - a. IGS maintains non-exclusive publication rights to the works submitted to it, now and in the future, regardless of the form or medium in which works are published. This means that, at its discretion, IGS may publish works of authorship that you submit in any print format, in any medium.
 - b. You may publish the works of authorship covered under this agreement in any form or medium subsequent to publication by IGS, provided the subsequent publication includes a statement that the work was first published by IGS, such as, "Originally published by the Institute of General Semantics, Inc., in ETC: A Review of General Semantics, Vol 62 No. 4, 2005."
 - c. Unless specifically agreed to in writing prior to publication, this agreement constitutes the entire agreement between the parties regarding all works of authorship submitted by you to IGS for publication. You agree not to assert any "moral rights" or similar rights against IGS with respect to such works.
4. You agree that you will be the sole author of the works transferred to IGS, which will be original works of authorship by you, free of plagiarism. You agree to use reasonable care to ensure that all facts and statements in the transferred works are true and that they do not infringe upon any copyright, right of privacy, proprietary right, right of publicity or any other right of a third party.
5. You agree that IGS may exercise all publication rights with respect to works of authorship you submit, including without limitation the right to edit them as it deems appropriate for publication, and that, if requested, you will cooperate with IGS in editing and otherwise reviewing such works prior to publication. To the extent that such edits constitute derivative works of the original submissions, they are likewise covered by this agreement in all respects.
6. You will cooperate with IGS if any complaints, claims or litigation should arise regarding your works, and if you comply with the terms of this agreement, you will be entitled to any applicable coverage arising from any applicable insurance policies respecting such works.

7. IGS will from time to time engage various commercial distributors of academic publications to extend the exposure of its publications beyond its membership and subscriber base. The means by which this extended exposure is achieved may include, but is not limited to:

- Offering online access to IGS publications in either complete or excerpted form on a free or fee-paid subscription basis to academic organizations and libraries;
- Offering sales of individual IGS-published articles through online marketplaces such as Amazon.com;
- Offering online access to IGS publications through commercial services such as ProQuest Learning, Questia, and others.

Under these distribution agreements, IGS receives modest royalty payments from the distributors. These payments are made on a periodic basis, usually quarterly, in the aggregate, without identification or segregation of issue number, article, author, etc.

Under the terms of this agreement, you forego any claim to royalties generated from the commercial distribution of IGS publications.

8. IGS will from time to time receive permission requests from other publishers to reprint articles from its publications, typically in textbooks or literary anthologies. IGS retains all rights with respect to determining the terms under which such permission may be granted or denied. Some publishers pay nominal royalties (typically, up to $300) for reprint permissions. Please select below your direction to IGS for handling such inquiries.

Do not permit any of my published works to be reprinted.

I agree to donate to IGS any share of royalties from reprinted articles. I understand I will receive a year-end letter stating the value of such donation(s).

Please send me a year-end check for 50% of royalties received for my works of authorship which are reprinted.

9. If you agree with these terms pertaining to the publication of your works of authorship by the Institute of General Semantics, please complete the information requested below, sign, date and return this agreement in its entirety to IGS. Your social security number (or other tax identification number as required by your national taxing authority) is necessary only if you are requesting to receive royalty payments.

10. In the event that any provision of this agreement shall be held to be unenforceable by a court of law, the remaining provisions of this letter shall be enforceable to the maximum extent permitted by law consistent with the expressed intent of this letter.

Agreed to by:

Signature

Date

Name

Street Address

City, State/Prov, Country, Postal Code

Social Security Number/Tax Identification Number

Received by:

Steven E. Stockdale
Executive Director
Institute of General Semantics, Inc.

Date

Please forward all 3 pages in the original, with your selection for future royalty payments under Paragraph 8 clearly marked, including signature and requested information on this page, to:

Institute of General Semantics
2260 College Avenue
Fort Worth, TX 76110